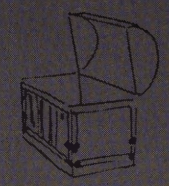
HIDDEN TREASURE

HIDDEN TREASURE RAVELINS' 1997



Society measures success in many ways. On quick observation, it may seem that society in general places high value on money and material goods, especially on the ability to acquire them. This is true because we need shelter, clothing, food and transportation in order to live comfortably. But in our quest to gather these things, we sometimes lose sight of what is most important in our lives: our relationships, a sense of purpose, and our dreams. These are the hidden treasures we must keep close to our hearts.

As we chart the course of our lives, we find ourselves surrounded by many opportunities to develop these treasures. Everywhere we look there are different people, each with their own special qualities which make them unique. These special relationships we enjoy in our lives are with our family, friends, and teachers.

Our academic training gives us the knowledge we need to provide for ourselves. Athletics and activities teach us about teamwork, leadership and how to handle responsibility. Our community teaches us about commitment with their unending support of the programs and all the students here at Oxford High. No matter how severe the storm may be, we can always count on each other and our neighbors to be there by our side and help us to see the silver lining in the storm clouds ahead.

What is Unique is to be Treasured

Shells line the beach everywhere you look,

But each one is different,
Each one with its own grace and splendor.
Each one waiting to be chosen and treasured,
Just like all the possibilities
That lie before you.

Appreciated

The faculty at Oxford High School has dedicated their lives to enriching ours. Teachers mold our minds, and place worlds of knowledge within our reach. They make difficult problems easy to solve by relating them to incidents in our everyday lives. Counselors tell of ways we can put this information to good use, while the secretaries keep everything in running order. Custodians and cafeteria workers make the school a clean and healthy place for students to be.

> "WARNING: If you listen to teachers, you might actually learn something." - Stephen Black

As a whole they are great treasures that encircle our lives forever. Although not always recognized, the faculty is greatly appreciated.

Unsung Hero

Hidden Treasures can be found anywhere if one looks hard enough. Often, they just go by unnoticed. Oxford High School is filled with hidden treasures.

One of these hidden treasures is notorious for her countless and colorful corrections and criticisms. She expects high standards of her students, as she does of herself. All who have taken her course know how demanding she is when attempted essays are returned with lengthy "love notes" attached. What most of us are unaware of is how much time and effort she puts into correcting our inferior papers. Demanding that we adhere to these high expectations, she is better preparing all of us for college and beyond. In her class, everyone is treated as an adult; even those who don't deserve it. No matter if the work is, Beowulf or Edgar Allen Poe, she always finds time to point out unique; points of view, approaches to life, and problem solving techniques.

We have decided to dedicate the 1997 Ravelins to Ms. Chamberlain, our most valued mentor. Her efforts help us through our first year of college because she conducts her class in a similar fashion. Ms. Chamberlain is the hidden treasure that we don't find until long after the time spent with her has past. Even though we no longer sit in your class all that you have taught us will remain in our heads and hearts forever.

Ode To Teachers

Early each morning they rise,
Searching for an unsnagged pair of panty-hose
Or trying to tie their ties.
They grab a wad of tissues for a stuffy nose
And jump into their cars.
Hoping they have an agenda.
Hey watch out, don't hit that fender!
To the school, to the school
I mustn't be late, that would break a rule.
Every Monday through Friday they repeat:
I will do my homework.
I will remember to bring a pencil to every class.
I will resist the urge to throw things at the Annoying kid in front of me.
I will not fall asleep during class,
Because I am the teacher, I am the teacher . . .

Miss Laki came to us this year in the middle of the first term. She replaced Mr. Pietro, who is now the new Dean of Students. She is fluent in both Spanish and French.

She went to Assumption College and then received her master's degree from Worcester State. She has been teaching for fifteen years and became a teacher, because she loved high school and she wanted to make other students like it. It has been her life long dream to teach at Oxford High School.

She attended Oxford High School and thinks there have been only a few changes since she was a student here. She has noticed a few little things like the door is always locked, but the students and the teachers have basically remained the same.

After college she was a substitute teacher for elementary students. She then taught at St. Mary in Worcester. She says the big difference between private school and public school is the uniforms.

In her spare time she enjoys working in her garden. She also makes porcelain dolls and spends a great amount of time knitting.

About a History Teacher . . .

Mr. Hazelwood is very well known throughout O.H.S. and was voted favorite teacher in this years senior poll. He has been teaching here for thirty-one years, and has seen many changes over the years, including decreasing student body and the increase in overall student awareness.

Mr. Hazelwood thinks one of the most rewarding aspects about being a teacher is meeting old students who are now prospering in life. Some of his eighth grade students are the grandchildren of some of his first students.

> "Mr. Hazelwood is wicked groovey!!" – Mindy Mathurin

Mr. Hazelwood chose to become a history teacher because history fascinated him. Retirement is inevitable, but hopefully for everyone at Oxford High, that day will be a long way off.

Esteemed

When we were eighth graders, we were the ones who were looking up to the upperclassmen. We were always the ones who generously gave our lunch money and relinquished our chairs to buy favor from the seniors.

Our freshmen and sophomore years found some of us still being picked on while we watched with envy the rest of our classmates already able to do the picking! Slowly, we relinquished some of our childish ways and by junior year we maturely accepted more responsibility. We had to start facing our future and prepare for college. New freedom was found with acquiring our licenses, but the flip side was to accept the financial burden of supporting a car and to save for college. We had to finally enter the world of work.

> "For the years to come; may they be as prosperous and unforgettable as this one."
> - Michael Shea, President

Senior year finds us at the top of our form. We follow in the footsteps of our predecessors, but with our own style. We showed the school what unity can accomplish with our overwhelming victory at the homecoming rally, guaranteeing that the juniors will have a tough act to follow. But the best is yet to come, as we realize the fulfillment of our ambitions.

Teacher, Advisor and Friend

Working with Mrs. Kathy Casavant over the years has been a fun and wonderful experience. When we entered high school in the eighth grade, we were lucky that Mrs. Casavant wanted to be our advisor. Little did she know what she was getting into. But then, again, neither did we. We had no clue what being the Class of 1997 meant to being a student at Oxford High School, which was obvious with all the fighting and bickering that went on during some of our class meetings.

But like a trooper she stuck by us. Mrs. Casavant would politely remind us we weren't the only members of the class and that we had to learn how to get things done through consensus. She taught us so much about life and to remember that it should be fun as we grow. As inexperienced underclassmen, she showed us what had been done, what had not been done and suggested ideas that could be done. She also taught us that nothing was impossible if we work together on a common goal. It is because of her that we see and believe in ourselves as Seniors; to be a good role model of a united class for the rest of the school.

> "I am really proud of the way they came together as a class this year." - Mrs. Kathy Casavant, Class of 1997 Advisor

Credit for some of our best moments is owed to Mrs. Casavant. Not just because she cared for us as students, but because she respected us as friends.

Try to imagine what it would be like to leave the only home you have ever known to spend a year living and studying in a foreign country. That's exactly what Jiri Umlaf and Wai-Ho Cheng have done, and Oxford High School has been very fortunate to host them.

Jiri Umlaf, from the Czech republic, has been staying with the Kettle family. Wai-Ho Cheng, from Hong Kong, made his temporary home with Mary and Bob Brouder. American music, football, and basketball highlight Wai-Ho's interests in the U.S. They both loved America and the unique variety of experiences offered in or country and in Oxford. This past year spent at O.H.S. has been unforgettable, and neither Jiri nor Wai-Ho regretted their decision to come to the United States.

Old Friends

Funny as it may look to us now, we thought we were so cool! Trying so hard to be unique in our appearance, we all ended up looking the same with big puffy hair (lots of gel), and our tight rolled pants. Just like styles, friends change, but each one influences us in its own way. Even though we don't spend as much time together as we once did, we still cherish all they have given us. These are the hidden treasures of friendship.

Balancing Act

It is an uncomfortable feeling when dating someone and balancing that with a best friendship. Best friends are always there for us when we need them. But conflicts do occur between best friends when dating begins. The friend may feel left out or that he or she is being avoided, even when that is not the case.

Best friends spend countless hours, days, months and even years together. After that much time, best friends believe they know each other inside and out. Sometimes, friends feel that they will be left out when the best friend starts a dating relationship, and find it difficult to appreciate until he or she starts to date, too. Boyfriends and girlfriends may come and go, but friends are forever and should not be taken for granted.

Friends, family, girlfriend — who do you choose? You don't have much spare time when you have to work, play sports, and do homework. On Friday nights, do you do something with your friends or your girlfriend? But what about that report that's due first thing Monday morning? Don't forget, you'll be working during the weekend. I don't know about other people, but my girlfriend is the most important thing in my life. School work is next. In order to do things, I have to keep my grades up. I can't quit my job because I need the money to pay for my car. What do I do? You don't know until the last minute what to do.

Man's Best Friend

"Man's best friend" has always been used to describe the canine members of our society. The unconditional love we receive from our pets is imcomparable and yet, often taken for granted. No matter how well our day goes our pets always enthusiastically greet us with a wagging tail. They curl up with us and keep us warm at naptime. Our pets take walks with us and never disagree with us when we talk to them. The way they show us how important we are to them make us remember how important they are to us. All the little things they bring comfort to our lives, and at least for the moment, let us forget about our problems.

It was finally here; one of the biggest events of our junior year, the long-awaited Junior Prom. The day we had all been waiting, planning and working for. March 13, 1996 was here at last. The time had come to enjoy the night. As the pre-prom worries were over. Dresses were bought, dates were selected and the decorating was done.

As one entered the transformed cafeteria, it was like being "On the Edge of a Dream." The walls were covered with shiny purple. The back wall was an enchanted castle. White pillars draped with purple gossamer surrounded the dance floor. Twinkling white lights and shimmering silver stars hung from the ceiling as we danced below. The cafeteria could not be recognized.

Our song was "More Than Words." The night was filled with dancing, laughter, romance, and fun. It would take "More Than Words" to describe this "dream" of a night!

SENIOR DAY

Our day finally arrived on November 8, 1996. We gathered at the American Legion, decorated our cars, and started down Main Street. Sounds of honking and cheering followed us down Main Street and entered the school parking lot. Once inside, we ran around the school before our grand entrance to the cafe. A meal of eggs, french toast, sausage, bacon, OJ and milk awaited our arrival, and was served to us by the teachers. After breakfast, we moved to the auditorium where the underclassmen performed a skit roasting famous seniors, including Josh Lempicki's crash into McDonald's, and Jason Thacker as he broke Lori Fanuef's car key in the ignition. We ended our morning with measurements for our caps and gowns. This is just one preparation for our graduation, and in some cases, a reality check that graduation is just around the corner.

Discovered Treasures

All the underclassmen sit in their classes and wonder how the winners of the superlatives are chosen. Some even ask seniors or juniors they know, but most don't really know. The main reason for that is because it changes slightly from year to year.

The first step is gather interested seniors to brainstorm lists of ideas for superlative categories. Some are used every year, others are chosen to reflect the attitudes and experiences of the graduating class. Some are factual, some are descriptive, while others are simultaneously serious and humorous, but not degrading. Then a ballot is made for members of the senior class to nominate a different person for each quality. After collecting and tabulating, those with the most nominations win the category.

Should anyone win more than one category, they were allowed to choose the one that was the most important to them. This allows for more seniors to be involved and a more interesting activity.

Priceless

We, the class of 1998, have experienced many triumphs and difficulties through the years. We are one step away from ending our time at O.H.S., a time full of memories. The class has grown together, stronger each year. Familiar faces roam the halls, ones we soon will not see. As we continue the remaining stretch at O.H.S., we will savor every moment, holding steadfast to the memories.

> "Too much homework! Too much to do!"

Juniors participate in many events such as the Junior Prom, Class Ring Ceremony, licenses, and planning for our futures. The Junior year may be described as the most important among the years at O.H.S.

We, as Juniors, have matured into young adults ready to conquer the world. Our lives will never be the same after we leave. We can take strength and knowledge from our years here. We have the tools in order to build new dreams.

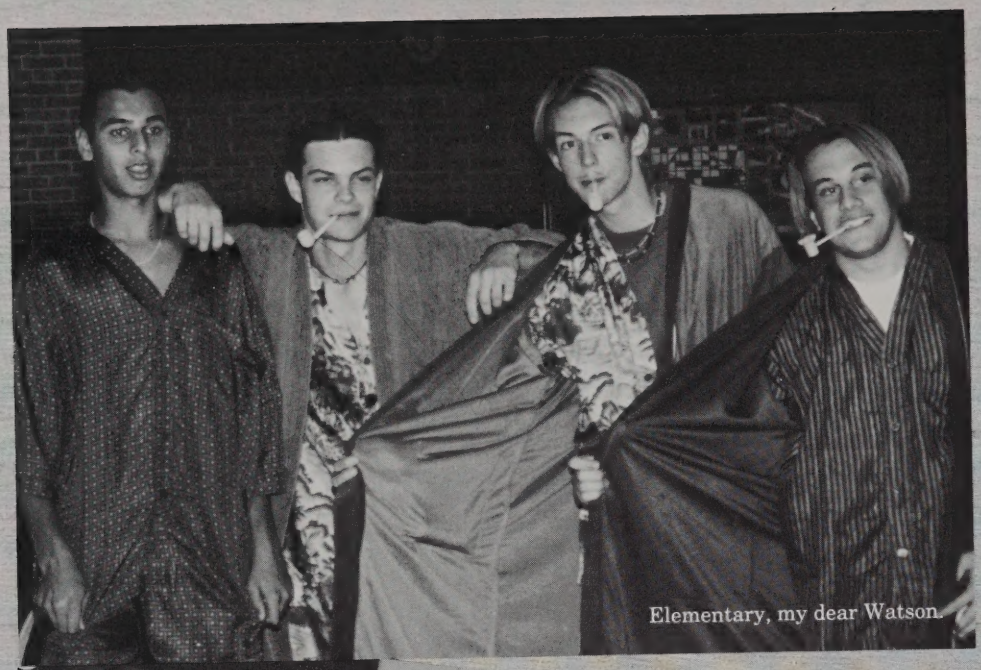
Pajama

The ring ceremony was held on October 1, 1996. The theme was a Pajama Party. The juniors were served breakfast by Miss O'Brien, our class adviser, Mrs. Kudron, Mrs. Guillotte, along with the kitchen staff. We received our long anticipated rings from Balfour, wrapped in black and orange bags tied with ribbons. The rest of the night was spent gazing at all the different rings worn by our class-



Elementary, my dear Watson.

Four cheers to the Juniors!

These Juniors are doing what they do best, having fun

We all wish that Jen Belanger's sixteenth birthday was great.

Party

mates. The difficulty in planning the ceremony was due to the busy September/ October schedule. After a date was finally planned, it proved to be a success. Almost everyone dressed for the occasion. Many went all out in planning their attire. Jeff Consolmagno and Andrea Guillotte won for best dressed. This night is definitely one to remember.

Finally Upperclassmen

Being a junior is the best year in high school! In eighth and ninth grade, we were the "babies" of the school. Hardly ever heard of, we were always stuck in third lunch. No upperclassmen ever talked to us unless they were trying to sell us something, like tickets to a dance or candy grams and flowers on holidays, or trying to take advantage of our gullibility with directions to the pool located on the third floor.

By sophomore year, we got a little more respect and better locker locations, but it was no fun being in the middle. We were still too young to hang with seniors and too old to be seen with eighth graders.

It's junior year, our first breath of freedom and finally we are upperclassmen. It's great being in control of the senior skit for senior breakfast and getting our class rings and our own prom. If junior year is this much fun, what will senior year bring?

Prized

On our first day of school all of us were really worried about a lot of stuff, the six period days. What were they going to be like? What class was dropped? How were we going to get our required number of electives and majors needed in order to graduate? Then there was gym class, we all got split up from our friends. Some of us had to go to health and the rest had to do Project Adventure. Then we switch half way through the year. What was Mrs. Lawrence really like? Were we all going to brave enough to climb that fifty foot wall? To make life more stressful, by November first all we really knew about our semi-formal was that it was on March 1. What were the colors? How was it going to turn out? If you want the answers to these questions read through the following pages and find out.

Health

During sophomore year, there's a new class we get to take: health. Our wonderful teacher is Mrs. Lawrence, and we have this class one-half of the year. The other half of the year we have a unique physical education class called Project Adventure (for more information on Project Adventure, see page 53). Health is really fun and we learn a lot. For example, we learn to trust our classmates. We also learn things about nutrition and how to keep ourselves healthy.

> "Mrs. Lawrence makes everyone think of healthier things to do." — Danielle Forbes

One activity that is done in health is everyone has to hold someone's hand and we all get tangled up. Then, all of us have to find a way to become untangled without letting anyone's hand go. This teaches us to work as a team and help each other. Mrs. Lawrence taught us many things that will be useful to us as we grow older.

Project Adventure

In our sophomore year, our "normal" physical education class was turned into . . . an adventure! Project Adventure is a class based on the Outward Bound Program. In this class we learn how to work in groups, trust our peers, and push ourselves to the limit. In Project Adventure we experience new activities and ideas. Every day we're given a different problem to solve or overcome. These things range from lining up from oldest to youngest to climbing a fifty foot wall. Project Adventure seems weird and scary at first, but once we experienced it, we despise the idea of going back to a normal gym class.

A New Schedule

The new six period days effect everyone at Oxford High School. Some of these effects are good and others are less appealing. For example, with less periods in the day it seems to pass by more quickly. There are less classes to go to after lunch now and that can seem to shorten the day. One of the drawbacks of this schedule is that all the students lost a class. Some only lost a study (yes, this means they actually have to do homework at home.) Others lost the opportunity to take an elective. In some cases students even lost a major. Any way you look at it, the entire student body had to drop at least one course. It appears that the over all student opinion about the six period day was lower when school first started. Now, everyone's pretty much gotten used to the idea. Not to say some wouldn't mind getting last year's schedule back or even maybe try another one. For now though, this one is doing just fine.

Semiformal

Every year the sophomores hold a semi-formal. We invite the freshmen and eighth-graders to come too. There's always lots of slow and fast dancing with friends (and also those who are a little more than friends). Our semi-formal committee does a wonderful job of decorating the room with beautiful colors and designs. Girls in dresses and guys in suits dance to music (like rock alternative, country, rap, etc.) put on by the D.J., and chosen by the students. People can sit at tables when they feel the need to break. There's also a refreshments area for when anyone needs a snack. All of the students really enjoy being at the dance.

Valued

We, the class of 2000, and the last class of the twentieth century, have an enormous reputation to uphold. We have to set the example for the first class of the twenty-first century and the next millennium, the class of 2001. Not only have we faced many challenges in the past, we are approaching more difficult decisions as we pass through high school towards graduation.

> "We are the last class of the twentieth century." - Angela Fongeallaz

We have to start thinking about what we want to make of ourselves. We have to maintain good grades to be able to get into the "college of our dreams" and the only way we'll achieve this is through hard work and taking on more responsibilities. We have four more years of high school left, and we plan on making the best of them!

Finally . . . Not the Youngest!

As freshmen, we're all happy that we are finally not the youngest anymore! The eighth graders look up to us now! It's great! We're all excited about starting French I for Spanish I and about getting out of the eighth grade hall. We have our own locker and we even get our own section of the bleachers to decorate for homecoming, instead of having to sit on the floor like little kids. More and more opportunities have opened up to us this year.

As a class, we have made a reputation for ourselves and have earned much more respect because of it. We may not be the youngest anymore, but we still have a few years ahead of us and look forward to many more exciting experiences.

All Smiles

There are a lot of different things that make people smile. What some people find amusing, others do not. Like having the ketchup shoot out of the dispenser in the wrong direction and getting all over your shirt in front of everyone at lunch. While everyone falls out of their chairs laughing, you would like to crawl under yours. Of course the reason why people find that amusing is because they are so glad it didn't happen to them!

> "Don't take life too seriously, because you only get one chance to live it." – Heather Aquafresca

Smiling is different. It can indicate amusement, or be a simple greeting. Most of the time it is a happy reaction to how you are feeling at the moment. Sometimes people smile while looking at a beautiful landscape, or receiving a good grade on a tough test. Sometimes people smile when they are "up to something." The smiles on these pages are because they simply enjoy being in the company of their friends.

The freshmen have been at Oxford High School long enough to discover the "perfect place" to be with their friends. Homecoming Pride

We were so pumped up about the homecoming rally! We had a great idea, and wonderful plans, and tons of support from our advisor, Mrs. Lawrence. We were so prepared! No way were we going to repeat our miserable last place defeat from last year! With Beau Britnell as Elvis, and our fifties poodle skirts, we were so cool!

> "The rally was fun, but I missed the games and the food booths." – Jackie Sullivan

Well maybe we didn't come away with a first place win, but at least we made it very tough for the judges. But none of that mattered because we had so much fun getting ready and being together at the rally, and no one was a loser. The only real loss was the rain out of the homecoming games and carnival. We lost an opportunity to make a lot of money for our class. But we will never forget the great songs, banners, and mascots of the 1996 homecoming rally.

Cherished

We have done a lot of adjusting during our first year at Oxford High School. In a bigger school with more people, we have many opportunities to get lost and distracted. But this is a welcome change. In making the transition from elementary school to the high school, we realize that many opportunities lie in wait for us. We have a wider variety of classes here at the high school than we did at the middle school. Some of them include technology education, classes involving the use of computers and the choice of honors or regular classes, all of which we've never had before. We have wonderful and talented new teachers who help us through our beginning year of high school. The friendly upperclassmen are more than tolerant of us, the poor, lost, little sheep, and we thank them for their kindness.

> "The years ahead will be as important as this one." – Anonymous

Numerous stairways and hallways, no study halls and standing like herds of cattle in the hallway before the first bell rings are all new to us, but we have adjusted well and have started our way through Oxford High School on the right foot. We are not just the "little eighth graders." We are an important part of the high school and hope to stay that way throughout our high school years.

Looking Up . . .

As we walk through the hallways and see the seniors, we wonder if we'll ever get to where they are now. We admire seniors who are members of the student council. We are in awe of seniors who are athletes and lead our teams. The foreign exchange students are so mysterious and we love the sound of their accents. The cheerleaders are so pretty and perform so well. And the list goes on and on. We know we must, but how will we ever fill their shoes someday? Will we ever be admired as we admire them?

Making Friends

Here at Oxford High School, we have many more opportunities to make new friends. With a larger student body and more extracurricular activities, we meet lots of new people, our age and older. As we make new friends, we will be able to share the rest of our high school years and maybe the rest of our lives with people we care about. Friendship is very important, especially to the students of Oxford High School.

Thinking Ahead

At Oxford High School, we have freedom. We are trusted and given responsibilities. This also means we have to work harder. We are held accountable for the loads of homework assigned to us every night. We are expected to get to class on time, no exceptions. We have to mature to deal with all aspects of school; more work, less time in which to do it, and all of our upper classmen. All of this responsibility and maturity is expected of us and teaches us to help prepare for the years to come. We should be glad because responsibility and especially maturity are things we will need most in the future.

Student Life

The Hidden Treasure of Opportunity

No matter how well we chart the course of our lives, there will be storms to be weathered, doldrums to withstand, and obstacles to circumnavigate. Yet these are the very moments that teach us the most about who we are. Every black cloud has a silver lining. The lowest ebb is the turn of the tide. Every challenge presents the hidden treasure of opportunity: to learn, to grow, to become.

Special Friends

A new program arrived to the halls of Oxford High School this year, ACE (The Autism Collaborative Education Center). This program is for children who have been diagnosed with autism and are between the ages of 14 and 22. Their curriculum includes math reading, communication, daily physical therapy, vocational training, special needs and adaptive physical education. Based on their curriculum, staff, and any additional support, this program meets holistic approach to educate children to obtain optimal education and social interaction for success.

C.O.F.F.E.E. provides an academic program designed for students who have a difficult time learning and adjusting to the traditional school day schedule. Project C.O.F.F.E.E. stands for Cooperative Federation for Educational Experience. This program helps a student succeed in computer maintenance, and repair, horticulture/agriculture, distributive education as well as other maintenance. Project C.O.F.F.E.E. is designed to help students design and operate small businesses on their own.

Wordly Studies

English, our native language, is learned in many ways, from reading literature to acting out scenes in Drama class or taking a college class. Our wonderful teachers Mrs. Fournier, Mrs. Pietro, Ms. Chamberlain, Mrs. Bridgeo, Mrs. Scanlon, Mr. Constanzo and Mrs.Casavant remind us of that old phrase " 'i' before 'e' except after 'c' or as sounding like 'a' in neighbor and weigh."

For most of us Social Studies is part of our day, from U.S. Foreign Affairs to Patterns of Behavior. Mr. Bergin and Mrs. Geenty are those that inflict those wonderful little facts of information that often makes us wonder: "What are we ever going to use this for?!?" But our hats are off to them.

Foreign languages are an integral part of our everydaylives. Due to the growing Spanish speaking population in our society, Mrs. Blazis,Mr. Gillman, Mi Greene, Ms. Lacki and Mr. Pietro a helping us out a great deal by teaching something that will help us to commu cate better with others in the future. I learning about culture, we learn that have a lot in common instead of just r licing our differences. Our teachers ha introduced us to a whole new world. Du ing the second semester, Mr. Pietro b came the new Academic Dean, th bringing Ms. Lacki to our school.

Mr. Lee, who heads the library, a his assistant, Mrs. Litchfield are wo derful people who are always willing help someone, from research papers t stroll on the Internet. Keeping in Shape

The sophomores spent the first half of the year with Mrs. Lawrence learning about health. They then went to . . . Project Adventure! The underclassmen and upperclassmen worked really hard with the Physical Education teachers. Twice each week the students have a fitness day where they participated in everything from step aerobics to running track.

The Biology II class and the Anatomy and Physiology class have had a lot of fun dissecting both fetal pigs and minks. Mrs. Spinney and Mrs. Racicot have assigned numerous geometry projects this year, including tessellation, polygons, and the model houses. The Trigonometry classes are learning how to use graphing calculators, and the seniors are preparing for college with Calculus and College Review Mathematics.

Express Yourself

The art and music programs at OHS may be small, but reveals nothing but talent from the students and faculty. Both music and art can be used as tools of self-discovery. Those who immersed themselves in these classes are lucky enough to participate in a language used in every country in the world — self expression through artistic endeavors.

Art is the subject of visual expression. It allows students to express themselves by drawing, painting, modeling, etc. Some of our many projects include using perspective to draw, "blocks", carving pumpkins for the Great Pumpkin Spectacular, paper mache, monoprint, and more. With the help of Mrs. Briody, students learn that nothing is impossible, if you just reach for the stars.

Music also is the subject of expression, except through time, sound, melody, and rhythm. The OHS music program is in a state of chromatic change. With the addition of a new music director, Mr. Baggett, the music department is starting on a new road. Several music-based classes are now offered, including band, chorus, and music appreciation. Now the language of music is available to everyone.

Let's hope that these programs only grow bigger and better as the years go on.

Graphing Lives

This year the students of Oxford High School came together to form a S.A.A.D. chaper in order to educate the students and community about drinking and driving, and other adverse affects of alcohol. On January 15th, we held elections. Jill Chenette was elected as representative of public relations, Jill Odgrin as secretary, Kelly Leslie — treasurer, vice president — Alysia Monaco, and president — Tania Scott. As a newly formed chapter, we will be attending meetings and work shops in attempt to find ways to make it a strong chapter to benefit our community. It has taken a lot of effort to get this organization started, and we hope to see it succeed and last through many years to come.

When I first went to Graphic Arts, I wondered, "What in the world am I getting into?" But I sat down relaxed and found Graphic Arts to be fun. The thought of doing work and feeling good about knowing I've done a good job proved to be very rewarding. I learned how to make resumes and plates, and I also learned how to make halftones and to run the press. In my eyes Mr. Stickney is a very good teacher who has a lot to offer as long as people want to learn what it is that he teaches.

Tech Ed is taught to all classes in the High School (8-12) by the skilled eye and hand coordination of Mr. S. Ducharme. In this class you learn the physics of technology and how it is used in an everyday life experience. This is a hands on learning experience and enjoyed by all of the students.

In Service

The Naval Junior Reserve Officers Training Corps. of Oxford High School is now in its second year. Our commanders, Cdr. Masley and LtCdr Millinner, share the work load of five classes including two Naval Science I, two Naval Science II, and one Naval Science III. This year R.O.T.C. has become more popular with many new cadettes joining the unit. These new cadettes have exceeded our greatest expectations.

During the past year, we prepared for our second annual Inspection and continued with our community service activities, such as SHARE and Toys for Tots. We also decided to adopt the two mile stretch of Route 12 that runs in front of the school. Through all our hard work we have accomplished about 748 hours of community service. We also participated in the Fleet Bank Competition in which we took third place, winning $2500.

We have made tremendous progress during the past year and we hope that the program continues to flourish.

Reaching New Heights!

In the spring and fall upperclassmen who have participated in Project Adventure are invited to join the Oxford High School Rock Climbing Club, which is lead by Mr. Hescheles. Members of this very special club learn techniques and skills for rock climbing, especially trust. Purgatory Chasm is the most popular spot due to its many different rock walls, but the club travels to many other places in Massachusetts and Connecticut. Rock climbing is definitely a different experience for all who try it. Climbing serves as a great way to strengthen your mind and body due to its extreme challenges for both. You don't have to be big and strong to rock climb. Rock on!

In November the Oxford Womans Club organized a ski club for OHS students to ski at Wachusett Mountain. The six trips were scheduled on Thursdays from 2:30-8:30 p.m. Chaperoned by Mrs. Maureen Naperlashi and Richard Rheault. One of the funniest experiences we had skiing was the time Jon Hill was left behind on the mountain when we left for home. Jon had to call his father to pick him up.

Mountain Biking began with Mr. Hescheles, who wanted to help show that physical education doesn't just take place in school. We rode our own bikes all over the Greenbriar trails on Wednesday afternoons. Most of us just enjoyed the trails, while others practiced racing skills.

Treasure the Experience

PEOPLE & PERSPECTIVES

The 1997 yearbook staff had numerous obstacles to overcome. Shortage of staff membres, shortage of time (no study halls to get work done) and a shortage of experienced staff made our task more difficult and take longer to accomplish. It is a difficult balancing act for the experienced staff member to do their work while trying to teach the newcomers. Although hard and at times annoying, it must be accomplished. Not having homerooms every morning made our annual subscription drive that much harder to organize and hurt our initial sales. It also made it difficult to meet our payment schedule. Homeroom held during Spirit Week helped the subscription staff to get the annual sales drive off to a good start.

Working with outdated equipment requires us to use the traditional layout methods. Typing is done on word processors, but we are unable to use more modern desktop publishing methods which would allow us more control of typesetting and typefitting the copy and to see our ideas in a more final version.

We are fortunate that there are so many who want to help, even if they can only do a small part. Few students have the time in their busy schedule to dedicate the ten to fifteen hours per week that being an editor requires. But without all the people who have helped to write the stories, gather the data, take the pictures, draw the layouts, sell ads, sell the books, design the ads, we wouldn't be able to make this book.

By overcoming all of the storm that temporarily clouds our vision, we went about our work, sometimes with heavy hearts. The production of a yearbook is a long, emotionally strenuous task. After putting aside all the things that were going wrong, we still found ways to laugh and have a good times. All yearbook staff members are overachievers who work hard every hear to make a book of which they, the rest of the school and the community can be proud. Mrs. Briody is always our guiding light to show us the way through those dark storm clouds ahead. Extremely busy herself with the art department and other school related tasks she spends numerous nights and weekends helping to make this book what it is.

What is the purpose of a yearbook? A yearbook is so that years from now you will be able to look back and see where your adult life began. This is accomplished through stories, photographs and captions about the year. It is here in these pages where you will always be able to find your friends.

Every staff member works on the yearbook for themselves but also for you, the students and faculty of Oxford High School. Please make all of us proud of our achievement by fully enjoying your 1997 Ravelins' yearbook, Hidden Treasure.

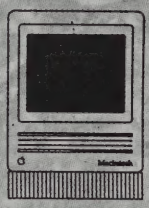
Unlimited Help



Peer Mediation is something few students know much about. Peer Mediation manages problems between students that are to be solved without the help of a teacher or guidance counselor. A mediator's job is to find out the problem, help the students solve that problem, and help make an agreement that both parties can live by. The mediation process has helped many desperate people. The upperclassmen mediators were selected three years ago by Mrs. Lawrence and the new eighth grade mediators were chosen last year.

The Computer Club has grown with new recruits. Ou new officers are: President; Lo ri Brennan, Vice Presiden Keith McIlvaine, Treasure Jen Clem, and Secretary; Mik Johns. As always, the Compu er Club is under the guidance Mrs. Threadgould. We're a ways around, finding new ar better ways to enrich our scho (and to fix some of its prol lems!). Excellent Endeavors

The Oxford High School Student Council is important in many ways to the school, students, and the community. Students from all grades work with each other to achieve their goals. The Student Council does many things including the announcements, homecoming pep rallies, and the senior citizens banquet, as well as the clothing and canned food drive. With the guidance of the advisor, Mr. Constanzo, we are planning to finish our year smiling.

With the help of our advisor Mrs. Blazis and the Senior officers for 1997, President; Katie White, Vice President; Chad Hosegood, Secretary; Emily Hudson, Treasurer; Matt Goulet, Parliamentarian; Lori Faneuf, and Historian; Shannon Smith, the National Honor Society has had another successful year. Together we worked to demonstrate our qualities of scholarship, leadership, character, and service. Throughout the past year, many hours were volunteered, fund raisers were run, and events were planned.

Being a member of National Honor Society requires dedication and responsibility. Each member is always reaching to be the best he/she can be. We, as a group, have strived to make a difference in our school and community.

Yes We Can!

Oxford High School enacted the "Yes, I Can" program for the first time. The program is under the direction of Mr. Hescheles, Mrs. Lawrence, and Judy Hoyt. "Yes, I Can" joins juniors and sophomores from Oxford High School with disabled teens. The bond created between the two groups gives each a chance to learn and grow with each other. The program is a great learning experience and is a wonderful way to meet new friends. The group meets every Thursday after school in Mrs. Lawrence's room. At each meeting Oxford students and their partners plan a get-together with each other. This ensures a one-to-one relationship to form as well as a friendship with the entire group.

— Michelle Banfill

Out of Sight, Out of Murder, Oxford High's first fall show in recent years was certainly full of good times and lots of hard work. Grueling rehearsals and hundreds of lines to memorize became our daily schedule. Tensions built and tempers flared, but on opening night December 10, 1996, all our tensions subsided and we went to work doing what we do best; act. The result: memories we will cherish for the rest of our lives. The plot begins as Peter Knight, a struggling author trying to write a murder mystery, is interrupted by his own characters in the story. Peter's life finally becomes one big murder mystery as some of the characters are killed by one of the characters. That immortal line still lives on; "The butler did it!" — Gregory Smith, (Peter Knight)

Home, Sweet Home

"We're in the mix in '96" was this year's Homecoming theme. It consisted of three spirit days: hat day, black and orange day, and class colors day. The class colors were seniors, white; juniors, black; sophomores, blue; freshmen, red; and eighth grade, orange.

It took many hours for the classes to turn their portion of the gym into a haven of pirate pride. The class themes were Seniors, Scooby doo; Juniors, Mickey Mouse; Sophomores, Smurfs; Freshmen, Elvis Presley; and Eighth grade, Winnie the Pooh.

After the yelling, screaming, and cheering, the Seniors came out from the competition on top, followed by the sophomores, and then the juniors. Although the weekend activities were cancelled because of rain, this didn't dampen the spirit of Pirate Pride gleaming from our school.

Facing Adversity

The 1996 Oxford Football season was a remarkable one. We started off winning our first nine games, and the only thing that stopped us was a good Northbridge team and the M.I.A.A. But still, our team did not give up. Going into Thanksgiving Day, facing adversity, we rose to the challenge. Although we did not win, we never gave up and played with a lot of heart and pride all year long.

I think this year our goal was to bring respect to the Oxford Football program and I think we earned it with an 8 and 3 record. This team worked harder than any other team I've been a part of. I am extremely proud and honored to have been a member of this team. I would also like to thank the coaches for the hard work they put into this season to make it a successful one.

This is a step in the right direction for this program and hopefully it will continue into the future years. Next year's team should have a good season with a large number of starters and a big senior class. I wish next year's team good luck and another great year.

The offense, led by quarterback Ryan Hopkins, had a balanced running game with the help of Josh Shultz, Joe Cormier, and the offensive line leading the way. The defense, who was led by linebacker Mike Escolas, who won some very close games for the team. Our performance shows a very promising future in the years to come.

Net Game

Girl's Varsity Soccer had a kind of turbulent season this year. There were a lot of bad moments, but the spectacular moments were there too. Two of our best games came when we beat Auburn and our Homecoming game against Leicester. Even though we were a team that was made up of mostly underclassmen, our record was still good. Over the season we developed a lot of injuries. We overcame them, though, and by the end of the season we were once again all in top shape. We always played our hardest and kept on digging for that goal, and we pulled together as a team to show that our spirit would never die. I wish the girls the best of luck next year and say "Keep on playin'" (K7 that is!)

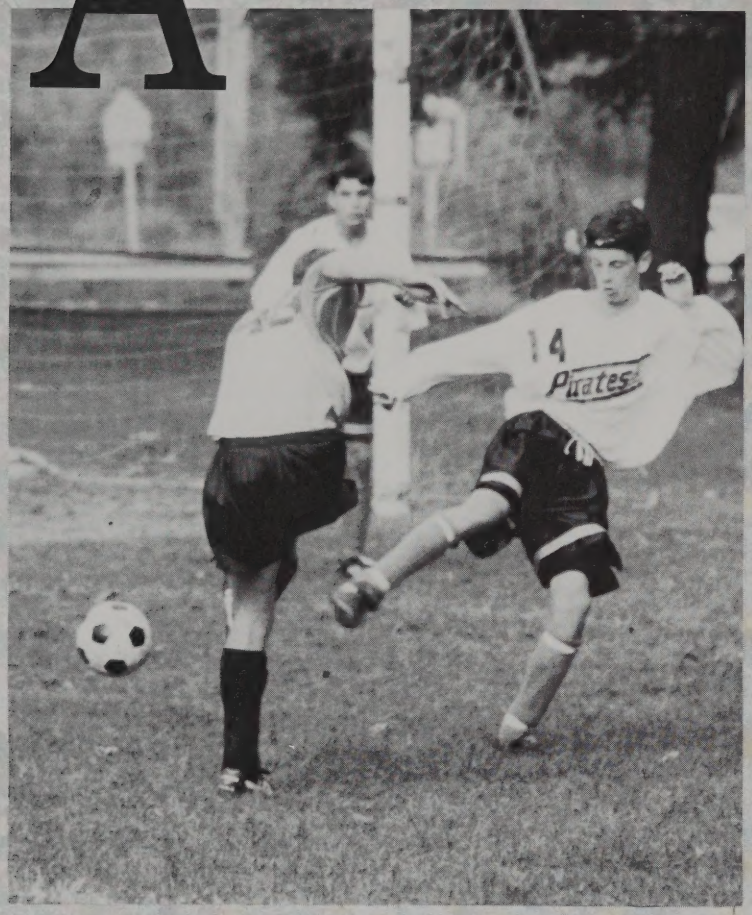
This soccer season didn't end in the fabulous style of last year and we didn't live up to everyone else's expectations. It could have been blamed on the fact that we didn't have the talent of last year, but that would be telling a lie. I believe we had a very skilled team, but we didn't play with the heart and "refuse to lose" attitude. That was our biggest problem why we didn't go so far. We did, however, work very hard and overcame the early season slip of two losses and a tie. Because we never gave up, we didn't lose again until the end of the regular season. In my heart, I believe we were better than our first round opponent and for no reason should we have lost that game. It was the attitude "we can beat this team easily" and "how good could they possibly be; I've never heard of them before" that lost the game for us. They were a team that obviously deserves much more respect than we gave them. Our season was not all lost because we still ended up winning the SWCL League, beating a strong David Prouty team. Next year you can bet that we could very well win SWCL again and we definitely will surprise a lot of people.

— Mike Spitz

Achieving Goals



The JV soccer team had a tremendous amount of fun, both on the field and on the bus. At times we even shared the bus with the JV girls. There was a tradition that if we lost, talking wasn't allowed on the bus ride home. Needless to say, we quickly broke that tradition! Our year was great, from beginning to end. We won almost every home game, from St. John's to Ba lett, and we all had a chan to play. The tea always had a bla at practice, fro stretching t scrimmaging Winning wa something w worked for, bu when we lost, w always had a goo attitude.

The field hockey team had a very trying season this year, partly due to the age and inexperience of our team. Even though this was one of our harder seasons, our captain Nina Stone helped to make sure that it was one of our most memorable. Andrew "Bubba" Sciannameo was the first male to join our field hockey team. The Cross Country team started off the season very strong and surprised a lot of runners. Captain and League All-Star, Junior Vinny Piarulli proved to be a strong leader. Sophomore Milton Morse continued to impress everyone with his natural talent and ability. Junior Sean Higgins, Freshman Chris Mathurin, and Sophomore George Shattuck were rookies this season but successful nonetheless. The other two captains, Juniors Jason Kudron and Ed Bourbeau, provided experience and strength. Sophomores Nick Daviau and Matt Medeiros solidified the team and eighth grader Matt Morse improved drastically over the season.

The team ended up finishing third in the S.W.C.L. Championship Meet and eleventh at the District Championship Meet. Since we are not losing any runners, next season looks very promising.

The Pride Machine

The varsity cheerleaders really enjoyed the football season. We cheered for a great team and were happy to decorate lockers and make cupcakes for the players. The cheering squad looked great this season with senior captain Erin Giangregorio and with a majority of the girls returning, and we had very little rebuilding to do. The squad of twelve had fun at camp with coach Karen Leofanti and performed well at both pep rallies. The squad really worked hard this season. The dedication and effort really paid off.

— Erin Giangregorio

Before the summer of 1996, ten junior varsity cheerleaders were chosen out of the many who tried out. Almost no one knew anyone else. As we spent more time together, we began working really well as a team. Over the summer, we became more experienced in stunts and cheering at the many practices we had.

Coach Paula Hopkins was an excellent teacher for the basics in cheering and helping to establish a solid foundation for more challenging stunts. We couldn't have done it without her!

This is the first junior varsity cheering squad since 1981, and our season at Oxford High School was extremely successful and enjoyable. I think the entire squad would agree when I say that we had a blast!

The 1997 Baskektball cheering squad had a tough season. With the loss of our coach and many cheerleaders, we had to rebuild with a new coach, Dionne Pellot, and many new cheerleaders. Starting with only two seniors Erin Gaingregorio and Micaela Love, the new coach left and the squad might have been dissolved if Paula Hopkins had not stepped in and led us through the rest of the season. Frustration

This season proved to be a frustrating one for the boy's basketball team. Although we held many teams to a close first half, we lacked the experience needed to put together a complete game. Guided by the leadership of our coach, Jim Donnely, and supported by great fans who never missed a home game or bad call, we were molded into a small group of both good friends and mature young men. I am confident that after a summer of hard work, next year's season will be one that all can be proud of.

With few players returning from last year, we had to begin from scratch, which isn't an easy job with a small team. Coach Ducharme did a good job motivating us to play hard, even when we were down. We would try our hardest, but the team couldn't get a game together. With four Freshmen returning next year, our team should be more experienced.

The Inside Track

The girl's indoor track team ended this season with a record of 4-4, missing a winning season by three points. This year individually, we broke many school records. At the beginning of the season, we weren't very close, but our last meet, we had become good friends. Chosen as a member of the SWCL All Stars was Julie Scricco for the 50 yard dash. Everyone improved tremendously this year, and in the future years, we hope team members will push themselves just as hard. Thanks goes to Coach Shattuck for pushing us to do our best!

Keep On Tracking

In only its third season, the Boy's Indoor Track team had an 8-1-1 record, winning the SWCL championship. The meets were very close, but a strong relay team brought us out on top. With many personal records broken, six team members and the mile relay team qualified for the State meet. Chosen as members of the SWCL All Stars were Sterling Barkus for the 600 yard run and Milton Morse for the 1000 yard run. This is a young team and looks to have a promising future.

"...More precious was the light in your eyes than all the roses in the world..."

They Never Quite Leave us

They never quite leave us, our friends who have passed
Through the shadows of death to the sunlight above;
A thousand sweet memories are holding them fast
To the places they blessed with their presence of love.
The work which they left and the books which they read
Speak mutely, though still with an eloquence rare,
And the songs that they sang, the words that they said,
Yet linger and sign on the desolate air.
And oft when alone, and oft in the throng,
Or when evil allures us, or sin draweth nigh,
A whisper comes gently, "Nay, do not the wrong,"
And we feel that our weakness is pitied on high.

To the Class of 1997:

Go placidly amid the noise and haste, and remember what peace there may be in silence. As far as possible without surrender be on good terms with all persons. Speak your truth quietly and clearly; and listen to others, even the dull and the ignorant; they too have their story. ~ Avoid loud and aggressive persons, they are vexations to the spirit. If you compare yourself with others, you may become vain and bitter; for always there will be greater and lesser persons than yourself. Enjoy your achievements as well as your plans. ~ Keep interested in your own career, however humble; it is a real possession in the changing fortunes of time. Exercise caution in your business affairs for the world is full of trickery. But let this not blind you to what virtue there is; many persons strive for high ideals; and everywhere life is full of heroism. ~ Be yourself. Especially, do not feign affection. Neither be cynical about love; for in the face of all aridity and disenchantment it is perennial as the grass. ~ Take kindly the counsel of the years, gracefully surrendering the things of youth. Nurture strength of spirit to shield you in sudden misfortune. But do not distress yourself with imaginings. Many fears are born of fatigue and lonliness. Beyond a wholesome discipline, be gentle with yourself. ~ You are a child of the universe, no less than the trees and the stars; you have a right to be here. And whether or not it is clear to you, no doubt the universe is unfolding as it should. ~ Therefore be at peace with God, whatever you conceive Him to be, and whatever your labors and aspirations, in the noisey confusion of life keep peace with your soul. ~ With all its sham, drudgery and broken dreams, it is still a beautiful world. Be careful. Strive to be happy. ~ ~

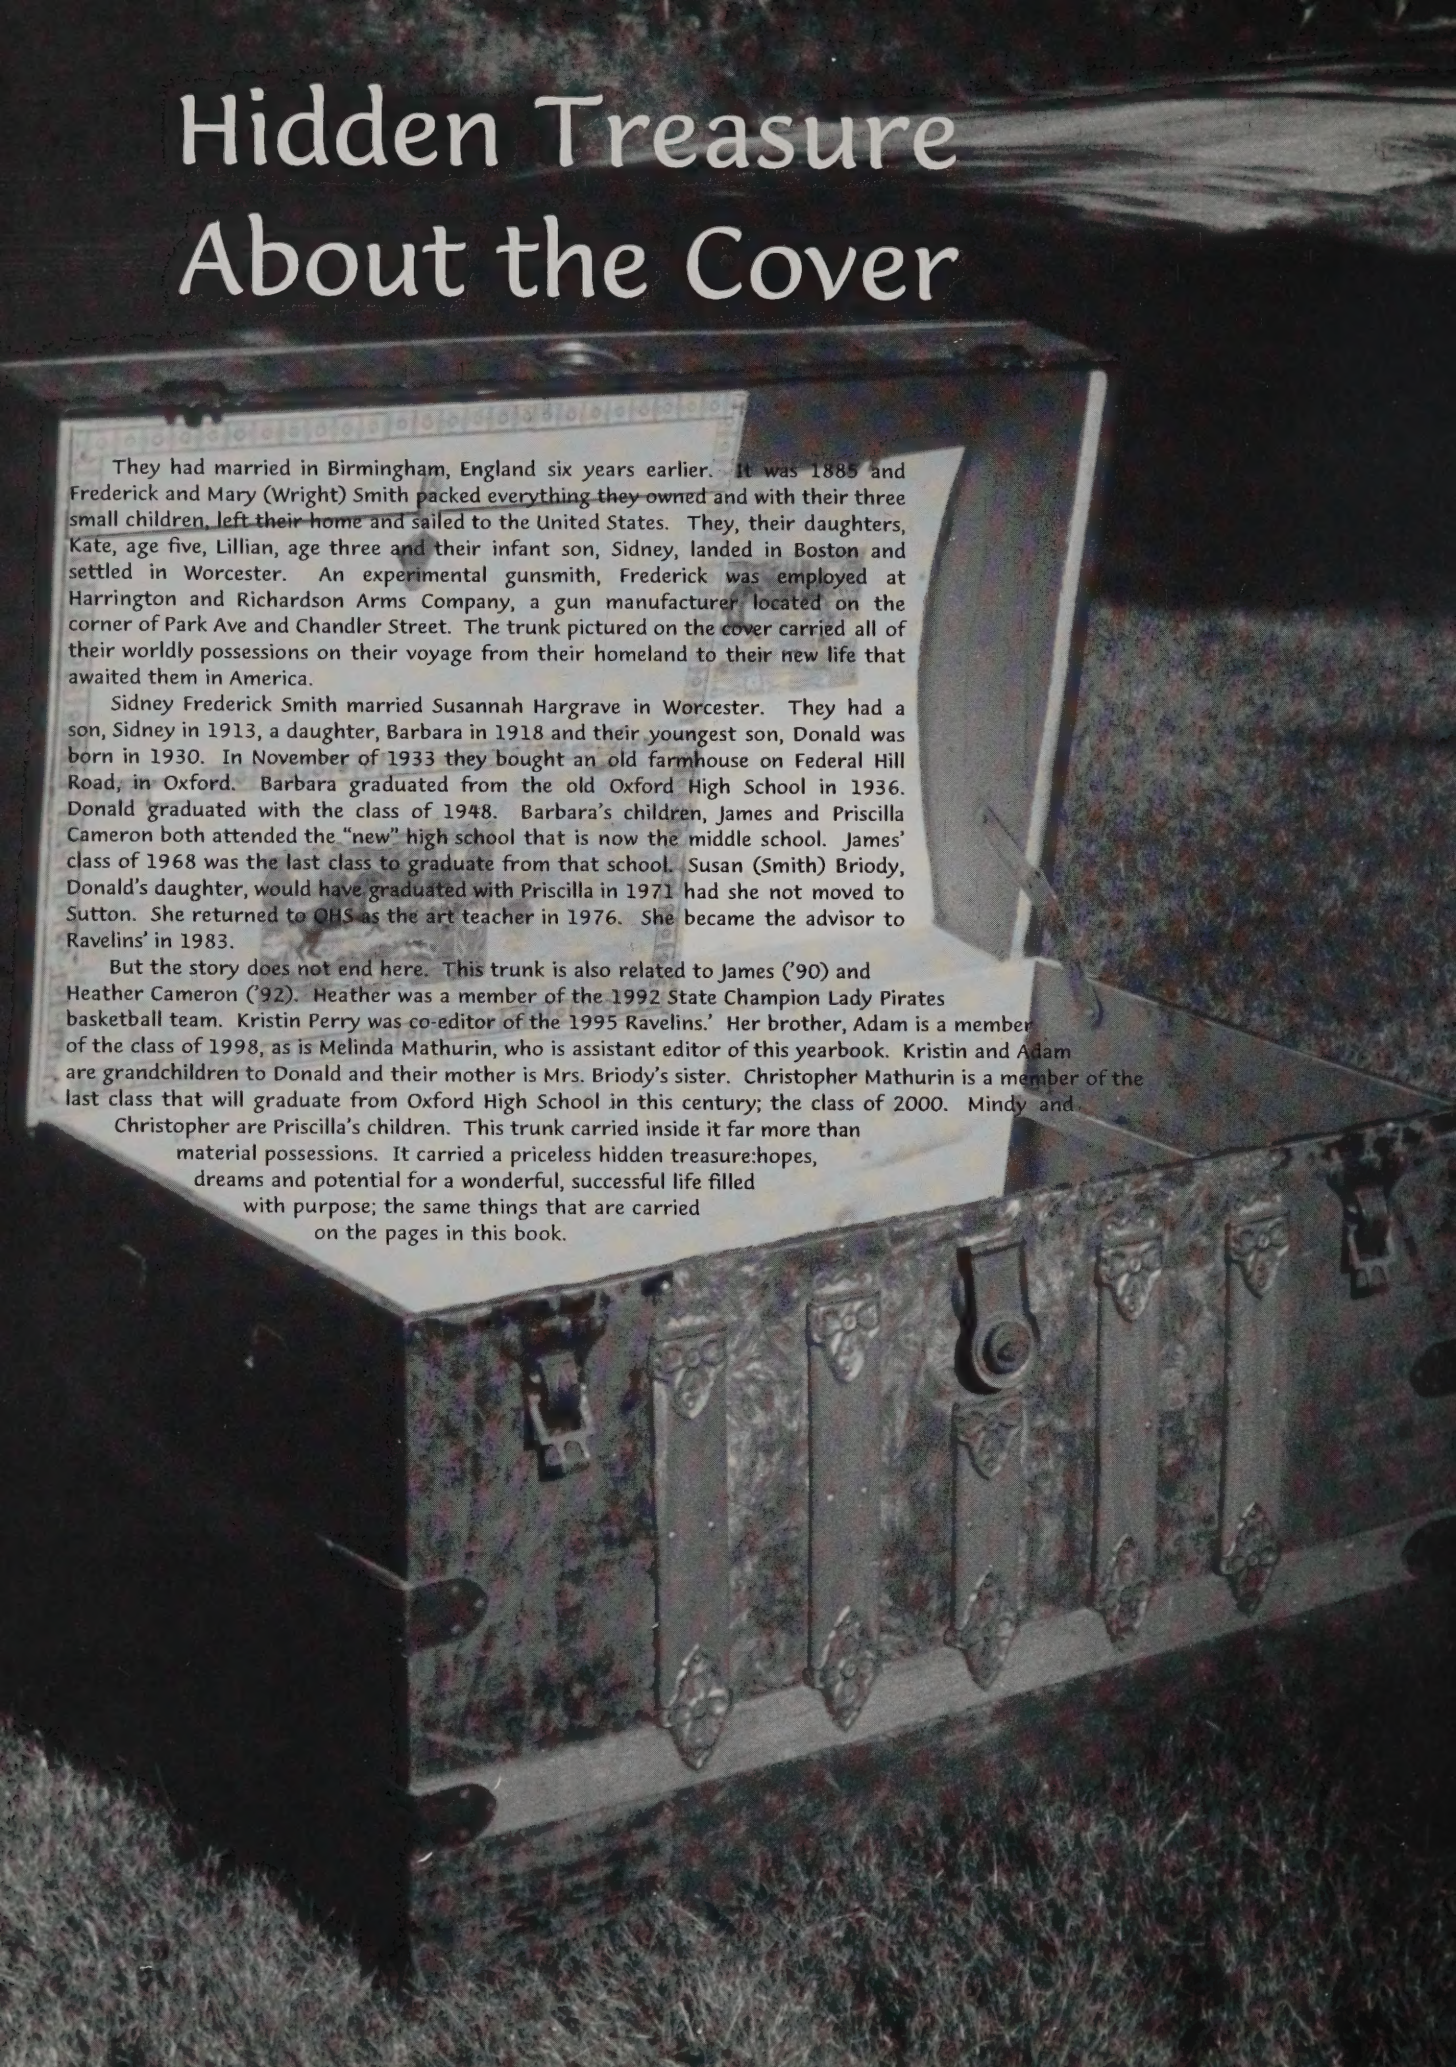
Hidden Treasure
About the Cover



They had married in Birmingham, England six years earlier. It was 1885 and Frederick and Mary (Wright) Smith packed everything they owned and with their three small children, left their home and sailed to the United States. They, their daughters, Kate, age five, Lillian, age three and their infant son, Sidney, landed in Boston and settled in Worcester. An experimental gunsmith, Frederick was employed at Harrington and Richardson Arms Company, a gun manufacturer located on the corner of Park Ave and Chandler Street. The trunk pictured on the cover carried all of their worldly possessions on their voyage from their homeland to their new life that awaited them in America.

Sidney Frederick Smith married Susannah Hargrave in Worcester. They had a son, Sidney in 1913, a daughter, Barbara in 1918 and their youngest son, Donald was born in 1930. In November of 1933 they bought an old farmhouse on Federal Hill Road, in Oxford. Barbara graduated from the old Oxford High School in 1936. Donald graduated with the class of 1948. Barbara's children, James and Priscilla Cameron both attended the "new" high school that is now the middle school. James' class of 1968 was the last class to graduate from that school. Susan (Smith) Briody, Donald's daughter, would have graduated with Priscilla in 1971 had she not moved to Sutton. She returned to OHS as the art teacher in 1976. She became the advisor to Ravelins' in 1983.

But the story does not end here. This trunk is also related to James ('90) and Heather Cameron ('92). Heather was a member of the 1992 State Champion Lady Pirates basketball team. Kristin Perry was co-editor of the 1995 Ravelins.' Her brother, Adam is a member of the class of 1998, as is Melinda Mathurin, who is assistant editor of this yearbook. Kristin and Adam are grandchildren to Donald and their mother is Mrs. Briody's sister. Christopher Mathurin is a member of the last class that will graduate from Oxford High School in this century; the class of 2000. Mindy and Christopher are Priscilla's children. This trunk carried inside it far more than material possessions. It carried a priceless hidden treasure:hopes, dreams and potential for a wonderful, successful life filled with purpose; the same things that are carried on the pages in this book.
